John F. Kennedy – 35th President of the U.S.A.

Senator John F. Kennedy and Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, Democratic candidates for President and Vice President of the United States, respectively, were elected in the nation’s big election in the Nov. 6, election.

The Democrats also captured the Senate and the House of Representatives with huge majorities. Although the margin in the popular vote was extremely tight and narrow, Senator Kennedy had the necessary number of electoral votes in order to put him in the White House.

The 58-year-old Massachusetts senator, who is the youngest President of the United States, will be inaugurated as the new Chief Executive. In his victory speech, Senator Kennedy told the American people that the United States is "a nation of hope, and good grace. The next President of the United States is a man of great intelligence, stamina and patriotism.

The entire American nation stands united behind President Kennedy and his administration. The next decade will require more bravery and wisdom on our part than any period in our history. We must face in true, every day, with the real loss of our age, the issues of survival.

BRITISH-AMERICAN RELATIONS

By CURTIS A. MANNING

The two nations have no more difficult problems to face than any other countries in the UN, but they are both trying to find ways to cooperate. The British and the Americans have a long-standing tradition of working together for the common good, but their relationship has been strained in recent years due to issues such as the Falklands War and the US invasion of Panama. The current issue of British-Asian relations is how to deal with these challenges and to strengthen their partnership.

A GREAT MILITARY LEADER AND STATESMAN

By Stephen Shumaker

General Douglas MacArthur was a highly respected military leader and statesman who played a significant role in shaping the course of world history. He was the supreme commander of Allied forces in the Pacific during World War II and later served as the 35th president of the Philippines. MacArthur's leadership qualities and strategic thinking continue to be studied and admired today.

WHAT HAPPENED WHEN

By THEODORE LITWIN

The current issue of The U.S. Congress and the executive branch is the ongoing debate over the budget and government spending. The tension between these branches is a result of the increasing power of the executive branch, particularly the presidency, and the desire of Congress to assert its constitutional authority. The key question is how to balance these powers and ensure that both branches are acting within their constitutional limits.

NEW YORK (UPI)—With a score of 763 putts in a most unorthodox contest, a group of Ukrainian women, who are visiting here for an occasional termite in tribute to the absurd summer, were captivated by the baroque structure of the National Association, according to the plaque fastened to it.

"You can't believe what we've learned," said Miss N. S. Neprel, who was among the group of three women," and perhaps the most interesting part, which we've learned, is that our women can compete with English, French, and Ukrainian.
